A note from our Head Teacher

Wow! What a start to the new term we've had. I would like to thank everyone for their very warm welcome and through the joy and excitement of returning to a new school year, the very sad news about Her Majesty the Queen's passing, filtered through to us yesterday. The children have all been remarkably stoic about this momentous event and have really impressed us all, with their maturity today. We will all look after each other over this period of national mourning and endeavour to keep our school a haven of peace, love and serenity.

I am hoping to catch up with as many of you as possible over the next days and weeks; as I am fervently learning new names and faces! In the meantime, if you have any queries or concerns, I'm usually in and around the office on most days.

Sad news...

Many of you will remember or have been taught by Lynne Evans, who sadly passed away recently. She was a much-loved teacher at Flushing School for many years and a great friend and colleague. Our thoughts and prayers are with her family.
